Adult Gerontology Acute Care Nurse Practitioner Program

Provide Complex Care for Acute Adult Patients

Georgetown University School of Nursing & Health Studies' (NHS) online Adult Gerontology Acute Care Nurse Practitioner (AG-ACNP) program prepares you for clinical practice providing holistic care for adult and geriatric patients with acute and critical illnesses as well as complex chronic conditions.

Develop advanced clinical reasoning and decision-making skills during HD-streaming, live online classes, informed by interactive content and unfolding case studies.

At on-campus intensives (OCI), practice interviewing and assessing with standardized patients and genitourinary teaching associates (GUTA), and gain specialized skills such as central line insertion, rapid sequence intubation, and point-of-care ultrasounds.

Manage adult and geriatric patients during clinical placements at sites that meet Georgetown's high standards.

You will receive dedicated support and resources throughout the program, which include:

• NHS faculty, many of whom are fellows in their specialty, who foster your professional growth and development

• Clinical placement specialists and advisors who partner with you to secure clinical sites

• Access to Georgetown library resources, student services, and the Hoya alumni network

AG-ACNP graduates are eligible to sit for certification exams offered by the American Nurses Credentialing Center (ANCC) and the American Association of Critical-Care Nurses (AACN).

The following reflects first-time pass rates of MS in Nursing students who graduated in 2019.[1]

100% ANCC Pass Rate

100% AACN Pass Rate

[1] For reference, the national pass rate for the 2019 ANCC exam for AG-ACNP was 91%, and the 2019 AACN exam pass rate for AG-ACNP was 74%.

Multiple Pathways for Learning and Career Growth

NHS offers the online AG-ACNP specialization through the Master of Science degree in Nursing, Doctor of Nursing Practice (BSN to DNP), and Post-Graduate Certificate programs.
